

UAE picks up the pace as Q3 corporate activity increases

After a slow summer, the UAE's Sukuk market is gathering momentum – with a plethora of deals emerging or announced over the last month that look set to drive the Emirates into the forefront of the US global Sukuk market and cement its position particularly as a leading location for corporate Sukuk activity. While other jurisdictions may have captured headlines for landmark sovereign issuances, the UAE has quietly built up a sterling reputation for its private sector proposition – and with the recent introduction of new Sukuk regulations, activity looks to be ramping up as we head toward the close of the year.

In June 2018, the Securities and Commodities Authority published regulations on the issuance of Islamic securities both inside and outside the UAE, following the meeting in February of the Higher Shariah Authority for the first time since the oversight body was established in 2016. "The new rules governing Sukuk offerings in the UAE could support market activity in tandem with other regulatory initiatives, although consistent adoption and implementation remains key to their success," said Fitch Ratings.

some way toward calming investor concerns and boosting issuer confidence – an ambition that already appears to be having some effect, given the recent activity in the market.

Islamic banks themselves are leading the way – on the 15th September, Abu Dhabi Islamic Bank (ADIB, the largest Shariah compliant lender in the UAE) announced the raising of US$750 million of additional Tier 1 capital through a perpetual Sukuk facility. Listed on the Irish Stock Exchange, the deal was sold as part of a wider capital-raising exercise, initiated to strengthen the bank's capital adequacy ratio. The five-year first Tier 1 perpetual paper carried a profit rate of 7.13% and complied with the Basel

Malaysia to boost retail investor involvement in the domestic Sukuk market

Following on from our August cover story on the growing impetus toward retail participation in Sukuk investment, Malaysia's Securities Commission (SC) in September took a significant new step – with the landmark liberalization of its regulatory framework to facilitate greater retail access to the RM1.3 trillion (US$314.8 billion) bond and Sukuk market.

Digital innovations push Islamic banks ahead

Shariah compliant banks are well known for being first movers on the digital front. Often younger, quicker and more agile than their more ponderous conventional competitors, Islamic institutions have acclimatized well to the new drive for fintech solutions – and a growing number of banks are leveraging this trend to push the barriers of service, providing new and effective digital solutions that not only improve customer experience, but give the banks themselves a competitive edge against larger peers struggling with legacy systems and maneuverability issues.

III regulatory framework issued by the Central Bank of the UAE. It was three times oversubscribed, receiving a total of US$2.1 billion in bids, and attracted a wide mix of investors from the MENA region, Europe and Asia. Private banks accounted for 34%, commercial banks 31% while asset and fund managers bought 28% of the Sukuk.

"The strong appetite from a broad range of international investors, particularly in current global capital market conditions, was testament to ADIB's prudent financial management, and the bank's prospects for further growth and development," said Khamis Buharoon, ADIB's acting CEO and vice-chairman.

ADIB, HSBC and JPMorgan acted as the joint global coordinators and structuring agents for the Sukuk, while ADIB, Citi, Emirates NBD Capital, First Abu Dhabi Bank, HSBC, JPMorgan, Sharjah Islamic Bank and Standard Chartered Bank acted as the joint lead managers and joint bookrunners.

ADIB is not the only UAE bank to tap the Islamic capital market. Al Hilal Bank in September also closed a landmark US$500 million five-year senior Sukuk facility - marking the first senior public Sukuk from the UAE since April 2018 and the first such deal from the bank itself since 2013. Led by CEO Alex Coelho, the bank met with over 90 institutional investors in London, Hong Kong, Singapore, Kuala Lumpur, Kuwait, Abu Dhabi and Dubai prior to placing the Sukuk, resulting in a highly successful launch that saw the orderbook reach US$1.4 billion (almost three times oversubscribed) with demand from over 70 investors. The investor base was diversified geographically, with a 25% allocation to Europe, 20% to Asia and 55% to the Middle East. The Sukuk paper was issued as a “drawdown” under Al Hilal Bank’s US$2.5 billion trust certificate issuance program, which is also listed on the Irish Stock Exchange. Al Hilal Bank, Dubai Islamic Bank, Emirates NBD Capital, First Abu Dhabi Bank, HSBC, JPMorgan, Nomura and Standard Chartered Bank acted as the joint lead managers and joint bookrunners on the Sukuk.

“Al Hilal Bank is very pleased with the success of this transaction, which highlights the confidence placed by investors in the bank’s board, management team and strategic direction,” said Coelho. “We are proud to have access to a diverse and international investor base, which allows us to implement our funding strategy in a timely and cost-efficient manner. The capital markets are ever more important to us going forward and we, as always, appreciate investors’ confidence in our name.”

But it is not just Islamic banks that are getting in on the act. Other corporates too are recognizing and reaping the benefits that the highly liquid Islamic debt capital market has to offer.

“With higher crude production and recovering oil prices expected to stimulate GCC growth in the second half of the year, and Middle East GDP set to jump from 0.9% in 2017 to 2.4% in 2018 the timing looks perfect for a new corporate Sukuk push”

Emaar Properties recently hired banks including Standard Chartered, Emirates NBD and Dubai Islamic Bank to manage a new perpetual Islamic bond sale as the property developer seeks to raise new funds for growth. The firm last sold debt in 2016, when it raised US$750 million from the sale of 10-year notes. Its return to the market suggests that the climate for corporate issuance could once again be improving, as oil prices creep up and the public sector subsequently pulls back from the Sukuk market to free up further liquidity for private sector issuance.

DP World, the giant logistics firm and one of the world’s biggest port operators, is also in the process of meeting fixed income investors ahead of a planned 10-year benchmark US$1 billion Sukuk issuance, offering a reported 175bps over midswaps. Meeting began in London on the 12th September, and the bank has hired Barclays, Citi, Dubai Islamic Bank, Emirates NBD Capital, First Abu Dhabi Bank, HSBC, JPMorgan, Societe Generale and Standard Chartered Bank as the joint bookrunners. Subject to market conditions, the company may also consider the issuance of 30-year Regulation S/144A bonds, with Barclays, Citi, Emirates NBD Capital, First Abu Dhabi Bank, HSBC, JPMorgan, Societe Generale and Standard Chartered Bank arranging the upcoming deals.

Finally, Abu Dhabi’s Aldar Properties has also commenced a series of fixed income investor meetings in the Middle East, Europe and Asia for its fixed rate US dollar-denominated Sukuk. The paper is expected to be issued with a tenor of five to 10 years, and is likely to refinance the company’s existing and outstanding US$750 million Sukuk due to mature in December 2018. The upcoming Sukuk is rated ‘Baa1’ by Moody’s Investors Service, with First Abu Dhabi Bank, JPMorgan Securities and Standard Chartered Bank hired to manage the deal.

Sukuk issuance in the region is also diversifying away from the dominant banking and property sectors, as well as spreading out from Dubai and into new market hotspots. At the end of August, for example, Abu Dhabi Global Market (ADGM), Abu Dhabi’s financial free zone, facilitated the issuance of a 12-year Islamic bond by French bank Natixis and the UAE’s Noor Bank. The transaction marks the first time an ADGM-devised structure has been used specifically to hold aircraft assets in the issuance of Sukuk, although the size of the transaction was not revealed. “This transaction allowed us to use our aviation and Islamic finance expertise to offer Islamic investors diversification into an otherwise unreachable asset class and open new sources of funding for aviation borrowers,” said Simon Eedle, the regional head of corporate and investment banking for the Middle East at Natixis.

The UAE banking sector topped the GCC region in the first half of 2018, with assets surging 2% to AED2.7 trillion (US$748 billion) according to Moody’s, which expects the market to remain largely resilient to oil price volatility and its impact on government finances. Although the wider GCC Sukuk market dipped slightly this year (with GCC issuance falling by 32% in the first half to reach just US$16.7 billion) as sovereigns pull back and the giant issuances of 2017 failed to repeat, this has left a new window of opportunity that canny corporates could do well to exploit. With higher crude production and recovering oil prices expected to stimulate GCC growth in the second half of the year, and Middle East GDP set to jump from 0.9% in 2017 to 2.4% in 2018 (according to forecasts from Oxford Economics), the timing looks perfect for a new corporate Sukuk push. Malaysia to boost retail investor involvement in the domestic Sukuk market

Following on from our August cover story on the growing impetus toward retail participation in Sukuk investment, Malaysia's Securities Commission (SC) in September took a significant new step – with the landmark liberalization of its regulatory framework to facilitate greater retail access to the RM1.3 trillion (US$314.8 billion) bond and Sukuk market.

The liberalization forms part of the SC's continued efforts to further develop its debt capital market, currently the third-largest in Asia (relative to GDP) and the world's largest Sukuk market.

“The liberalized framework will allow a more efficient issuance process for corporate bonds and Sukuk to be offered to retail investors”

“The liberalized framework will allow a more efficient issuance process for corporate bonds and Sukuk to be offered to retail investors,” said an SC spokesperson on the 19th September. “Qualified issuers no longer need to make disclosures through a prospectus, and are only required to issue a product highlight sheet. The range of corporate bonds and Sukuk that can be offered to retail investors has also been expanded beyond plain vanilla bonds.”

The SC is also introducing a new seasoning framework to enable retail investors to access existing corporate bonds and Sukuk that are currently traded by sophisticated investors in the over-the-counter (OTC) market. Under this framework, corporate bonds and Sukuk that are eligible for retail investment must have been in the market for at least 12 months, and have a minimum credit rating of 'A', among other requirements.

In tandem with these measures, distributors of corporate bonds and Sukuk in the OTC market are required to observe the sales practices prescribed by the SC, such as the requirement to undertake necessary client on-boarding assessment and ensure fair treatment of investors.

The new retail framework is supported by the centralized online information platform, Bond and Sukuk Information Exchange Malaysia, established by the SC in November 2017. BIX Malaysia enables investors to obtain necessary information on ringgit Sukuk to assist in their investment decisions.

The SC has confirmed that the new rules will come into effect on the 11th October 2018, following which date retail investors will be able to access the Sukuk market subject to the aforementioned conditions. In terms of investor protection, it should be noted that distributors of corporate Sukuk are required to observe rigorous sales practices prescribed by the SC, including client onboarding assessments and fair treatment of investors. Nevertheless, the move should deepen the pool of liquidity available, thus increasing demand and potentially tightening the price point. For highly rated onshore issuers, the new framework could open up access to a whole new market of investors. (P)

Digital innovations push Islamic banks ahead

Shariah compliant banks are well known for being first movers on the digital front. Often younger, quicker and more agile than their more ponderous conventional competitors, Islamic institutions have acclimatized well to the new drive for fintech solutions – and a growing number of banks are leveraging this trend to push the barriers of service, providing new and effective digital solutions that not only improve customer experience, but give the banks themselves a competitive edge against larger peers struggling with legacy systems and maneuverability issues.

In September, a Bahraini Islamic bank became one of the first in the region to implement a biometric payment network, using a platform developed by Bahrain-based Eazy Financial Services and powered by NCR Corporate, a US company specializing in self-service kiosks, point-of-sale (POS) terminals, automated teller machines (ATMs), check processing systems, barcode scanners and business consumables.

Eazy will deploy the plan using Authentic, NCR's transaction-processing platform. Authentic can be used as an omnichannel system handling ATM and POS channels as well as branch and digital banking or as a consumer payment service hub integrating gateways to services such as Faster Payments or other interbank networks. According to NCR, Authentic is designed to integrate with any core banking, fraud detection or other internal or external system. It adds that Authentic can accept any type of transaction from any device, source or system, authorize and authenticate it, and route it to any destination.

Consumers will be able to register their fingerprint through any bank linked to Eazy's network and then use that at any device (ATM or POS) to start a transaction rather than using a card.

The first phase will see Eazy and NCR developing the appropriate payment infrastructure to serve participating financial institutions in Bahrain, before expanding over time into the wider Middle Eastern market.

According to the Bahraini Islamic retail bank, the biometric solution, which is being implemented as part of its wider digital strategy, will give customers a safer, much easier and more secure way to bank. "Our customers are tech-savvy and expect frictionless access to banking services – and the introduction of biometrics is another major step in that direction," said the CEO.

The new biometric payment network will become available in a phased manner to retail customers of the selected Islamic bank by the first quarter of 2019.

“Payments stand out as the single largest driver for the biometrics market. We are driving biometric verification in the region, which is the future of the financial industry”

"Payments stand out as the single largest driver for the biometrics market. We are driving biometric verification in the region, which is the future of the financial industry," commented Eazy Financial Services CEO Khaled Al Ahli.

UNLOCKING THE POTENTIAL OF ISLAMIC FINANCE

Substantial new deal set to boost intra-Arab trade

In September 2018, the League of Arab States (LAS) and the International Islamic Trade Finance Corporation (ITFC) have agreed to work together to accelerate the growth of intra-Arab trade, in a move that could significantly boost the opportunities and advantages of Islamic trade finance facilities in the region.

The LAS was founded in Cairo in 1945 and currently comprises 22 members, namely Algeria, Bahrain, Comoros, Djibouti, Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya, Mauritania, Morocco, Palestine, Qatar, Syria (suspended), Oman, Saudi Arabia, Somalia, Sudan, Tunisia, the UAE and Yemen. The ITFC, meanwhile, is the trade finance arm of supranational agency the IDB, with a mandate of helping regional entities to gain better access to trade finance.

Signed during a recent ministerial meeting of the Economic and Social Council of the LAS and ITFC in Cairo, the MoU outlines clear objectives aimed at enhancing trade capacities and improving structures and mechanisms of trade cooperation among Arab countries.

As part of the agreement, the LAS and ITFC have solidified their commitment to jointly coordinate the design, financing and implementation of technical assistance and capacity-building programs as well as tackling issues related to the development of intra-Arab trade. The MoU will also enable both parties to achieve their objectives of enhancing trade capacities among Arab countries as outlined in the 10-year work program adopted by the Islamic Summit held in Makkah, as well as the Arab summit (the Jerusalem summit - Dhahran).

"The signing of this MoU is an important step toward enabling cooperation between the LAS and ITFC," said ITFC CEO Hani Salem Sonbol. "With our shared goals of achieving Arab economic integration and enhancing trade and capacity-building activities within the region, we are very optimistic about the opportunities that will arise from this collaboration. This is an important step toward accelerating the process of trade development of Arab nations and their participation in the regional and global market."

Ambassador Kamal Hassan Ali, the assistant secretary-general for economic affairs at the LAS, added that: "The signing of this MoU will establish a legal basis for the cooperation between the LAS and ITFC. It will open up new prospects of collaboration, which will certainly be reflected on the completion of the requirements of the Greater Arab Free Trade Area and therefore the Arab Customs Union. Particularly, a decision has been communicated to the Economic and Social Council, at its current session, to further develop the Greater Arab Free Trade Area and conform with the World Trade Organization, as well as to similar regional agreements, which will positively affect the positioning of the intra-Arab trade."

Initial programs agreed under the MoU, such as the Arab Africa Trade Bridges Program and the second phase of the Aid for Trade Initiative for Arab States Program have been earmarked for rollout in a bid to meet set objectives toward strengthening cooperation between the two parties. The MoU will support the Greater Arab Free Trade Area through hosting regional training courses, conferences and workshops covering the trade development area.

Since 2008, the ITFC has provided more than US$40 billion in trade financing to member countries of the OIC. Most recently, it committed to implementing US$3 billion-worth of framework agreements in Egypt to finance the importation of commodities such as petroleum, petroleum products, gas, wheat, foodstuff and other goods.☺

Hospital Sukuk demonstrates Sukuk support for construction projects

In August 2018 TRIplc Medical (TMSB), a wholly-owned subsidiary of Malaysian investment holding company Triangle Research International (TRIplc), issued a RM40 million (US$9.77 million) 19-year junior Sukuk to fund the ongoing costs associated with the construction of a new hospital for Universiti Teknologi MARA (UiTM) and the government of Malaysia. The second series in the program, the paper demonstrates the versatility of Islamic financing in the field of complex construction projects – a speciality not restricted to the healthcare sector, but applicable in any field where development is required.

The paper, structured under a “cost-plus-profit” (Murabahah) principle via a commodity-based (Tawarruq) arrangement, was floated under a junior Sukuk Murabahah program of up to RM150 million (US$36.51 million) in nominal value. Arranged by Hong Long Investment Bank, the 19-year paper will mature on the 21st August 2037 and offers a fixed profit rate of 8% payable semi-annually.

In February 2016, TMSB was awarded a 25-year concession agreement to develop the 400-bed UiTM teaching hospital, academic facilities and accommodation for Zone 1 Phase 3 (ZIP3) of the UiTM Puncak Alam campus in Selangor, and thereafter to undertake asset management services for the project. In October 2017, the firm raised an 18-year senior Sukuk of RM639 million (US$154.7 million) rated ‘AA1’ by RAM Ratings, and a further RM27 million (US$6.53 million) via an unrated 19-year junior Sukuk. Both issues were guaranteed irrevocably and unconditionally by Danajamin Nasional for a period of 48 months.

The latest issuance builds on this successful track record, and will be used to part-finance the estimated RM599 million (US$145.79 million) total construction costs of the project, and to pay the incidental fees - including expenses for professional advisors, consultants and other expenditure.

Each certificate of the unrated RM40 million (US$9.77 million) paper was issued in multiples of RM1,000 (US$243.38). The issuance also comes with a call to upsize, provided that after upsizing, voting on any resolution for the program is carried out on a ‘per series’ basis and not on a collective basis, and that all documents are submitted for review by the Securities Commission Malaysia.

The sale comes in the middle of a high-profile acquisition of TMSB by Puncak Niaga, another major Malaysian investment holding company. Months after the procurement of the multimillion ringgit hospital project, TRIplc shareholders agreed to a proposed restructuring and transfer of listing exercise that will see the group become a subsidiary of Pimpinan Ehsan before being sold to Puncak Niaga Holdings. In December 2016, Puncak Niaga announced the proposed acquisition of TRIplc for RM210 million (US$51.11 million) to expand its construction division.

The successful Sukuk issuance, in the midst of a major corporate restructuring, demonstrates the resilience of the Islamic debt capital market and the current appetite for paper, while the simple and effective structure highlights how easy it is to raise funds for a wide range of construction-based requirements. ☺
